Create New Records. He was so little thought of by the local handicappers that he was given "head starts" in his first races, but soon he revealed his true form, and from that time on he was a back marker. He defeated all the best men from East and West with ridiculous ease, and there is no knowing just how good he is. He swam some distances in faster than record time, but unfortunately on one occasion he lost the benefit of his wonderful speed in the water, as only one timekeeper was on hand. According to the rules three or more timers must "clock" a race in order to establish a record. Schaeffer will undoubtedly be a competitor in the championship events next Summer, and the New York A. C. will have to hustle in order to find a man to beat him. Five Men Tied for First Money.
